A Brick Federal with pedigree, this c1820 Warren Street building was built by one of Hudson's founding fathers and later owned by the Van Rensselaer family. Comprised of three units, there is a fabulous owner's duplex taking up the top two of three floors, while a retail space and a 1BR apartment make up the first. Sited on a double lot, the backyard is wide with beautiful gardens and a three bay garage with endless potential. The house is rich in periods and history having been renovated in different eras with distinct tastes, until the current owners did a full, cohesive renovation completed in 2019 utilizing the best local craftsmen. The owner's unit has an open concept third floor with vaulted ceilings and exposed ductwork. The kitchen and common spaces are here to capture a fabulous view of the Catskill range and evening sunsets. The second floor comprises two bedrooms and an office, the master is fabulously generous and takes over the entire eastern wing. The retail space is gorgeous with big street facing windows it runs the western length of the building and has views through to the garden in the back. There is also a one bedroom apartment, well appointed, well sized, and recently renovated. A chance to own part of Hudson's rich history, 239 Warren offers both a great investment and lifestyle. 3m walk to Amtrak.
